A referee with the U.S. Soccer Federation and the Alabama High School Athletic Association, he currently is the Varsity Soccer Coach at Holy Sprit Catholic High School, where the Boys Varsity team won the state championship in 2005.

THE SHELTON STATE COMMUNITY COLLEGE MACE

This symbol of Academic Excellence, Career Technical Achievement and Community Service was completely designed and constructed in 2003 by Sam House, Ron Estes and Jamie Lindsey, students in our Computerized Numerical Control classes. The College will be forever grateful to these students and their instructors, Jason Moore and Ronnie Guy for their insight, skill and dedication to Shelton State. The faculty grand marshal for the commencement processional and the bearer of the mace is the recipient of the Dr. and Mrs. John Todd Award for Exceptional Achievement in Teaching during the spring exercises and the Chancellor's Award Nominees for Academic and technical Faculty Members of the Year for the fall exercises.

The History of Shelton State Community College

The history of Shelton State Community College dates back to 1947 when a young legislator, the late Governor George C. Wallace, introduced legislation in the Alabama House of Representatives that established the first four trade schools in the state. In 1950 the Alabama State Board of Education selected Tuscaloosa as the site of the third trade school.

The trade school campus was built where Home Depot and Target now stand on Veterans Memorial Parkway. The trade school's first classes began in October 1953 with 82 students enrolled. The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools accredited the school during the 1970's, and the name was changed from J. P. Shelton Trade School to Shelton State Technical College.

During the 1960's and 1970's, the community college movement emerged as an educational force in this country. In 1975 Brewer State Junior College in Fayette, Alabama, located a branch campus in Tuscaloosa. By 1979, the branch had over 1,000 students and was larger than the main campus. In 1979 the Tuscaloosa Branch of Brewer State Junior College and Shelton State Technical College were joined, and Shelton State Community College was born.

The college's technical programs continued to be located on the original campus while the academic programs were moved into a building located on Skyland Boulevard. During the 1980's the Alabama Fire College, which was housed in a building on McFarland Boulevard, became part of Shelton State Community College.

In 1963 C.A. Fredd State Technical College was established in west Tuscaloosa. In 1992 efforts to merge Fredd State and Shelton State began, and the merger was completed by 1994.

Shelton State's dream of a new and larger campus to hold the growing student population began to materialize by the late 1980's when the college purchased 110 acres in south Tuscaloosa County. Plans were developed and ground was broken for the new structure in 1994.

The technical wing of the campus was completed in June 1996, and the academic and administrative wings in August 1997. In 1998 the fine arts wing was added. Today Shelton State Community College has over 7,000 students and is one of the largest two-year colleges in Alabama.
